

What you sent, and why the gap is still there

Glow Ventures Family Office · 5 October 2026 · our list of 29 September follows, unchanged

In short: you sent 25 statements (and 18 spreadsheet copies) from four managers; every one is now on the dashboard. But they cover accounts already closed or already shown, and none of the nine documents we asked for on 29 September is among them. So the dashboard moved by only +₹1.61 Cr (Buoyant, valued at 31 Aug, not 31 Jul).

* Ajay’s 3P statement shows ₹31.06 Cr paid to his HDFC Bank account. For Ankita’s units we have only an ICICI bank advice of ₹21.43 Cr (filed as folio 3000049); her 3P statement would confirm it.
† Price moves since 30 June; the DSP Gold and Silver ETFs (₹54.85 Cr on the review), not valued because their units and NAV are on different bases; part holdings; private holdings the review carries at cost.
Live view: the ₹211 Cr of funds your statements record only as units, valued at their latest NAV. Our 29 September list (next page) says ₹231 Cr is on no statement; a line-by-line re-check has since put it at ₹169.89 Cr (our change, not the new files”).

The gap closes only when the nine documents arrive — above all the holding statements for Ajay’s Motilal Oswal and HDFC Bank demats (or a CAS for each PAN), and the latest valuations of the private investments.

No statement reports BSE Ltd., so the dashboard shows nothing.

Why: Ajay's main Motilal Oswal demat (1201090012539150) came only as a transaction statement (1 Apr – 31 Jul 2026). It lists only holdings that moved in those four months. BSE Ltd. and the others that did not move are not in it. For Ajay's HDFC Bank demat we have no statement at all.

It prints quantity, a rate and a value. The rate is the price of the last movement (section 2), not what you paid. There is no purchase price and no purchase date anywhere on it.

Why: a demat account only holds the shares. It does not record what you paid, so its statement has no cost column.
